GAZING FOR MONEY.

A Youth's Interest in a Shop Window.

New York Son.

A young man stood silent on Broadway yesterday. He was good looking and neatly dressed. He appeared to be very much absorbed in contemplating some object across the street. He was so oblivions of his own personality that when he was jostled by some one of the passing throng he paid not the least attention to it. A push, a thrust in the ribs produced, seemingly, no response in his sensibilities. He stood long and patiently, turning his eyes neither to the right nor to the left.

At length the fixity of his attitude and

Mason B. Parker died here on Monday evening last, at half past five o'clock. Mr. Parker's health had not been good for some time past, but he had been confined to his bed but a short time; he will be burled at Clarksburg to-day. The deceased was about fifty-five years of age and unmarried. He was, some ten or fifteen years ago one of our most popular and efficient river clerks, for a number of years on the Portsmouth and Cincinnati packets. After quitting the river he located at Maysville and was for some years in the employ of T. K. Ball & Son, at that place, acting in the capacity of book-keeper for that firm. He came here several years since, and has not been regularly employed during that time. Mace Parker was a whole-souled generous man, with a heart too big for his pocket-book. Several snits of interest to steamboatmen in particular were filed in the United States District Court yesterday, all relating to violations of the navigations laws. The first of these is a suit begun by John C. Harper against John C. Hopkins, James Hatcher, W. O. B. Ratcliffe and R. M. Ferril, owners of the steamboat Mountain Girl. The plaintiff alleges that the Mountain Girl is a vessel duly enrolled and authorized to carry fifty-one passengers, and by special permit seventy-five additional; that on the 21st of September last, at the port of the Agricultural Fair Grounds of Mason county, Ky., the boat received 260 passengers and carried them from said port to Maysville, Ky., contrary to the statutes. whereby the defendants are liable to pay to the plaintiff the sum of $10 for each and fired near the stand, but no one was hurt. every passenger carried unlawfully, together with $36, the passage money paid by said unlawfully carried passengers, making in all the sum of $1,376, for which sum and costs he asks judgment. > The United States files suit in the same court against John C. Power, owner of the Gretna Green, a vessel of over twenty tons burden, alleging that on the 21st of September, 1881, that boat towed two barges carrying a large number of passengers from Maysville to the fair grounds and return, and that the barges were not supplied with life preservers, axes, buckets, and yawl-boats, as prescribed by the board of supervising inspectors of steamboats under the laws of the United States,

-There has been a fair average catch of seals on Neah Bay and Quilleute, Washington Territory, this season, but, owing to the advance in cost of catching, and decline in value in foreign markets, the season's business on the whole has been unprofitable.— Chicago Times.

-A valuable fiber called pita or bromelic grows wild in Honduras. It is said to be the strongest fiber known, and can be used, half and half, with silk or wool. Machinery has been made to prepare it for manufacturing purposes, and it is said to be worth, when ready for market, $1,000 a ton.

produced a disinfectant which the med-my line Give me a call. ical papers of the Old World heartily commend. It is composed of chloride of lime, camphor and glycerine. The mixture can be used in all cases where phenic acid is now employed, and is less disagreeable, less irritating and less toxic than that acid.

-Diving for black pearls employs a large number of men and boats off the coast of Lower California. Traders supply the vessels and diving apparatus upon the stipulation that the pearls that are found are to be sold to them at specified rates. These jewels are of much beauty and highly prized. A year's production is worth on an average from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

-Straw has long been used for the manufacture of paper, and it is now made into lumber of any desired length and width. It holds nails as well as wood, and is susceptible of a higher finish and polish. Like papier-mache, it is waterproof, and can, therefore, be used for external as well as internal purposes. Samples resemble hardwood, nearly as dark as oak, but more dense in texture, and with a specific gravity one-fifth more than that of black walnut. It is cheaper than wood, and will in the future largely take its place in building. -Chicago Journal.

—The following is a cheap and simple non-conducting covering for steam pipes: Four parts of coal ashes, sifted through a riddle of four meshes to the inch, one part ealcined plaster, one part flour, one part fine fire clay. Mix the ashes and thre clay together to the thickness of thin mortar, in a mortar trough; mix the calcined plaster and flour together dry, and add to it the ashes and clay as you want to use it; put it on the pipes in two coats, according to the size of the pipes. For a six-inch pipe, put the first coat about 1 1-4 inch thick; the second coat should be about 1 1-2 inch thick. Afterward, finish with hard finish, same as applied to plastering in a room. It takes the above about two hours and a half to set on a hot pipe.— Germantown Telegraph.

-An engine giving off a total of sixtyhorse power was found by the indicator diagrams to be using twenty-five-horse power to get rid of the exhaust steam from the cylinders, and had been working in this condition for years, the loss of so much power never having been even suspected till the indicator diagrams revealed it. Many engines are running in this country, close beside streams of water, and exhausting the steam into the air, when by the addition of a condensing apparatus, a large increase of power could be obtained, or a saving of fuel effected. In an engine taking steam at sixty pounds pressure, and cutting off at half a stroke, the gain of power by condensing would be about 32 1-2 per cent., of which 2 1-2 per cent. would be required to drive the air pumps.

-Mr. John Francis Clark, who at present sits in the judges' box at Epsom, and declares each year the win-ners of the Derby and Oaks, has occupied the post for thirty years. His father and grandfather held it before him. It has been in the family seventy-six wears, and he will be succeeded by his son.
